WINTER 2008

January 28, 2008

Kris' Korner

I hope you are all enjoying a healthy and happy winter wherever you may be. We are busy preparing for what we hope will be an early spring and golf season at Brookview.

Each golf season brings with it a very mixed bag of surprises. Wondering when the snow will melt and when we will open is always key. Waiting to see how the winter has affected the course conditions is always second. Hiring and training staff is important and time consuming. Getting our new merchandise in and setting up the golf shop is a work in progress during March. Ordering food and beverages and getting the kitchen set up is one of the last projects before opening.

But the thing I look forward to most each spring is seeing all of you patrons again and catching up on your news of the winter and hopefully winter travels and golf rounds! So let's hope the snow melts early and we can meet and catch up on the latest news!

See you in the Spring!
